

Redwood City, CA based product review network Huddler.com is venturing out of the pre-launch shadows with a contest aimed at getting you to share what you know about the green products you use. From hybrid vehicles to solar arrays, CFL bulbs to green cleaners, efficient appliances to geothermal heat pumps, Huddler wants to know about your experiences and help you learn from like-minded peers.

From April 2nd until Earth Day on April 22nd, registered users at Huddler have the opportunity to vie for one of ten green prize packs valued at more than $140 each. Each pack includes:

- 1 100% recycled nylon Huddler messenger bag
- 1 EarthLED CL-3 bulb
- 2 TCP SpringLight CFL bulbs
- 1 bottle of Eco Touch waterless car wash
- 1 bottle of Biokleen all-purpose spray and wipe cleaner
- 1 bottle of Earth Friendly Products Dishmate dish washing liquid
- 1 bottle of Method daily shower spray
- 1 pair of GreenLaces shoelaces

To learn more about the contest, visit <http://greenhome.huddler.com/pages/contest>

About Huddler: Launched in March of 2008, Huddler is a network of niche product review communities. By focusing each “Huddle” on specific areas of interest, Huddler hopes to provide a home for the most knowledgeable, passionate consumers to meet one another and share what they know in an interface that even novice internet users can take advantage of. By integrating custom built discussion forums, wikis, product reviews, image hosting, and more, Huddler not only helps you decide what to buy, but how to better use what you already own. Huddle together. Shop Better.

For more information, contact Cristina Foug (Green Community lead at Huddler) at cristina@huddler.com.